

How about...?

*Got a spare minute?
Why not try one of these activities?*

Work out how to draw a face without lifting your pencil off the paper. What else can you draw like this?

Produce a nature diary watching particular plants grow and recording how they change in size and appearance.

Learn to juggle – be patients and keep practising!

Play a board game or make up your own.

In a similar way to Roald Dahl, invent a new food or sweet – produce your own poster or advertisement for it!

Imagine your house is for sale! - produce an illustrated room by room guide or a virtual tour with commentary!

After our successful origami butterflies, can you find a new origami design to make at home using recycled paper ... perhaps you could make a frog, bird, bow or rabbit?

Plant and grow something!

Design a new invention for the home – Wallace and Gromit style!

Talk to whoever is cooking tea and create a colourful and mouth-watering menu! Could you set and decorate the tea table too?

Practise playing an instrument or make your own instrument!

Learn a new card game or make up your own.
